She gets first time blinkers. Red Hot Miss has shown up well in both starts to date and stays the trip. Scarlet Empress steps up in trip with a 4kg claimer aboard and is one to watch in the betting.

Race Preview: Christmas Rose started at long odds on debut but was not far off the winner. The experience will count although she does take on older runners. Brightsunnday has improved since trying a little further. She has it all to do with top weight but does get first time blinkers. Peaceful Duchess has improved since a change of stables and a switch to the poly track. She has the best of the draw and the extra will suit. Chihiro has yet to earn but has not been too far back in the Cape. The poly track could bring out the best.

Race Preview: Good Omen will never get a better chance of shedding his maiden. He has been consistent and the step up in trip should not be an issue. Gimme The Truth has shown up well on both local starts and is the most likely danger. He has run well on the poly track. Crimson Typhoon was narrowly beaten over course and distance last run and gets the same apprentice aboard. Bourbon's Beast has been disappointing and tends to lack extra when it matters but he is seldom too far back.

Race Preview: Fine Wine carries top weight and has the widest draw but has smart form on the poly track and Michel's 1.5kg allowance in her favour. Chasing Gold was a touch disappointing last run but her form before that has been thoroughly franked and she goes well on the poly track. Ebisu makes her poly track debut and has shown some promise. If she takes to the poly track, she will be a threat. Red Coral is 1kg worse off with Chasing Gold on their last meeting but the former may have run a little below her best.

Race Preview: Dawn Surprise is always competitive and the stable is in good form. She goes well over course and distance and should be right there again. Innerbloom is way better than her last Cape effort. She has a handy galloping weight and should be competitive if taking to the poly track. Ruby Rising has improved at recent outings and enjoyed the extra furlong last time out. She meets Thought Control on the same terms with little more than a neck separating them but the latter has the wider draw to contend with.

	8 What A Fortune 33%	1 Golden Rule 25%	7 Golden Destiny 1:09.65

Race Preview: What A Fortune was narrowly beaten first up on the poly track last time out. He drops back in trip from a wide draw but does have a 2.5kg claimer aboard. The Specialist makes his poly track debut and was not far back last run on the Highveld. He was coming off a hattrick of wins prior to that and is down in class here. Thisiswhatitmeans was outclassed last run on the turf but had solid poly track form prior to that run. He has a big weight but looks capable. Golden Destiny is back to a sprint and although he does look narrowly held by What A Fortune he must have a chance.

Race Preview: Last Margarita won well first up on the poly track. She takes on a modest handicap field and with a light weight can follow up. Golden Angel was a narrow winner on the poly track last time out. She has a fair weight but can follow up in this company. Quandura has run two good races in a tongue-tie and a winner over course and distance last run in an Open Maiden. K M V Retrofit goes well on the poly track and has not been far back at recent outing. She can feature form a good draw.

Race Preview: Mountainsofthemoon has run two smart recent races on the poly track. Her form has been franked and from a good draw with title-chasing Craig Zackey aboard she looks to be the one to beat. Got The Word has found form of late and the step up in trip should not be an issue. He has a light weight and a good draw. Pongola showed up well on the poly track last run. He had been fairly consistent prior to that and the switch to the poly track may have brought out the best. William Of Orange showed up well first run out of the maidens. He has improved on the poly track and can feature again.
